I GENERAL INFORMATION

(a) Name: Anthony IKPI

(b) Address: Department of Agricultural Economics
University of Ibadan, Ibadan, Nigeria

(c) Email: a.ikpi@comcast.net

II PERSONAL PROFILE

I am an energetic and resourceful, computer-literate agricultural economist with an in-depth understanding of development processes and substantial research experience in African agriculture, environment, and natural resources management. I possess strong analytical & conceptual skills with particular experience in public policy analysis & advice, agribusiness planning & management, agricultural & rural development projects evaluation, and impact studies on public & private sector investments. I have exceptional ability to work under pressure and with minimum supervision. I possess an elastic capacity and charisma to work amicably with colleagues and subordinates to achieve set targets. I have demonstrated qualities in managerial leadership, organizational and team-building skills, training, and resource mobilization. I have excellent oral and written communication skills that have enabled me to get used to writing reports on a daily basis, and to translating economic analyses into relevant implementable policies and strategies. I have capacity to manage multiple tasks in a dynamic setting.

I have a broad knowledge of and experience with the United Nations (UN), Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research (CIGAR), international aid and development agencies, and the university system. For over 36 years, I have developed, maintained and administered pan-African networks and collaborative arrangements with a wide range of partners including government, private sector, NGOs, UN system, academia, donor agencies, and the media. I have extensive experience in proposal development and presentation process to the donor community for funding research networks and other development programs. I also have vast working knowledge and experience with international donors and multilateral banks, and the external assessment of public and private institutions/agencies.

I am a power-user of Microsoft Office Suite products, especially Word, Excel, and PowerPoint. I possess extensive experience in research and analysis of crop and livestock farming systems across agro-ecological zones especially of West Africa, and energy and environment in Nigeria. I am experienced and effective in passing information I possess to those around me as and when necessary through programmed training or direct class teaching. I am a Life Fellow of the African Association of Agricultural Economists, (AAAE).
